

MING WANG

A CHILD'S UNIVERSE

Ming Wang's A Child's Universe is a highly inventive and versatile set of ensemble pieces designed to introduce young instrumentalists of beginner–intermediate level to the world of contemporary music. Immediately accessible in style, attractive, tuneful and rhythmically uncomplicated, the twelve pieces are divided into four groups — for winds, guitars, strings, and combined ensemble, all with percussion as available. Though each group forms a unity, the pieces can actually be played in any order, or even performed individually. The number of musicians playing each line can vary, provided that a suitable balance within the ensemble is maintained. If a particular instrument is unavailable, another of similar compass and timbre may be substituted (versions of the parts in C are available where a non-transposing instrument is used).

"The pieces from Ming Wang's A Child's Universe pass directly through the ear into the child's inner world, where the sounds and images are transformed into huge imaginative landscapes... They therefore succeed brilliantly in performance."

Helmut Lorenz, Head of the renowned Musikschule der Stadt Burghausen
